BURBANK, CA—Drawing back the curtain on the reclusive and mysterious life of the multiplatinum recording artist, Disney+ premiered a new six-part Eras Tour documentary Friday that offers a rare look at Taylor Swift. “Fans might know Taylor Swift’s music, but The End Of An Era goes where no form of media has ever gone before to show who she is off the stage,” Disney+ spokesperson Ethan Greene said in a statement, lauding the team behind the docuseries for “doing the impossible” by finally getting the artist to appear in front of a camera. “After years and years of fiercely protecting her privacy, Taylor will at long last give fans a peek at her personality. I don’t want to give too much away, but The End Of An Era also sheds some light on the mystery man at the center of her secretive love life!” At press time, longtime Swift fans who had viewed the docuseries were reportedly delighted to learn the artist owns cats. 🐾
